~United We Stand~

2002

2002

From Here-

There are open roads and endless possibilities.
The world will revolve and the celestial bodies will glow.
Beings come and go, leaving traces of life behind.
Events will occur, but where are we?

We know not.
Not of who we are, or where to go.
What to do, or what to become.
What now?

From Here -

Change will come and difference will arrive.
The tide will slowly turn as the clouds gently roll away,
And a vision is exposed.
Life's vision -
The torment, the pleasure,
The peace that comes from within.
The piece of one being,
One soul that overcomes space and time to achieve acceptance.
Acceptance of oneself.

From Here -

The completion is sought after the attempted.
Turns come and go with desperate anxiety.
To keep in stride is the key.
From here we are afraid, for the unknown causes intimidation.
That which is hardly bypassed by achievement.

From Here -

We know not.
Not what road to take, or which way to go.
We can proceed to our best -
We can follow our dreams.
From here, we will succeed.

Unforgotten

Unforgotten ways stir memories of times before --
Before life changed, before things were different --
Of what was then, but now forever in the past.
For yesterday you were with us, and today you were not.

You were a friend to laugh with,
A friend to talk to,
A friend whose presence was bright as a flame.

Now you are a memory,
Yet memories of you still burn inside.
Though we are singed by our memories,
We scrape our wounds rather than let go.

We do not forget,
We cannot forget,
We will not let your flame burn out.

Through space and time you remain the one we love,
The one we yearn to see, the one we want to hold.
You are the friend who is no longer with us,
The friend now forever still, yet still forever friend.

Times alone and times together

Walking down the hall
You come upon two doors
You see light under one,
Which is slightly open.

The other is dark and mysterious.
The first seems smeared with dirt,
The second shiny with new paint.
You put your hands in your pockets
And pull out a key to the second door.

Which one do you open first?

Deciding on the first, you turn the knob.
As you look inside, you see images of friends,
People you know, places that you have been.

You close the door, wanting to see what is behind the second.

The door is dark and cool to the touch.
The key, still in your palm, fits into the lock.
It creaks as it opens, revealing total darkness.

You feel around for a switch, and finding it,
The room is bathed in light.

Swirled images of people, things you have never seen.

You walk in, not knowing what is to happen,
But willing to try anything, you join these unknown people.

Past and future, known to unknown.

This is life.

NEWPORT R I

A black and white illustration of a hand holding a lit candle. The hand is positioned in the lower center, with the thumb and index finger gripping the candle. The candle is lit, with a flame at the top. The background is a stylized American flag, with the stars and stripes visible. The text is arranged in a circular pattern around the hand and candle.

The flag rises in people's hurting hands

The tragedy and terror has spread along our land

Blazing red, white, and blue will lead

People's hearts continue to bleed

Friends and loved one's lost behind

September 11 will be etched in our minds

The candle's flame rises high to the sky

Yet people still continue to die

Those lost will never be forgot

The people who helped and put forth their thought

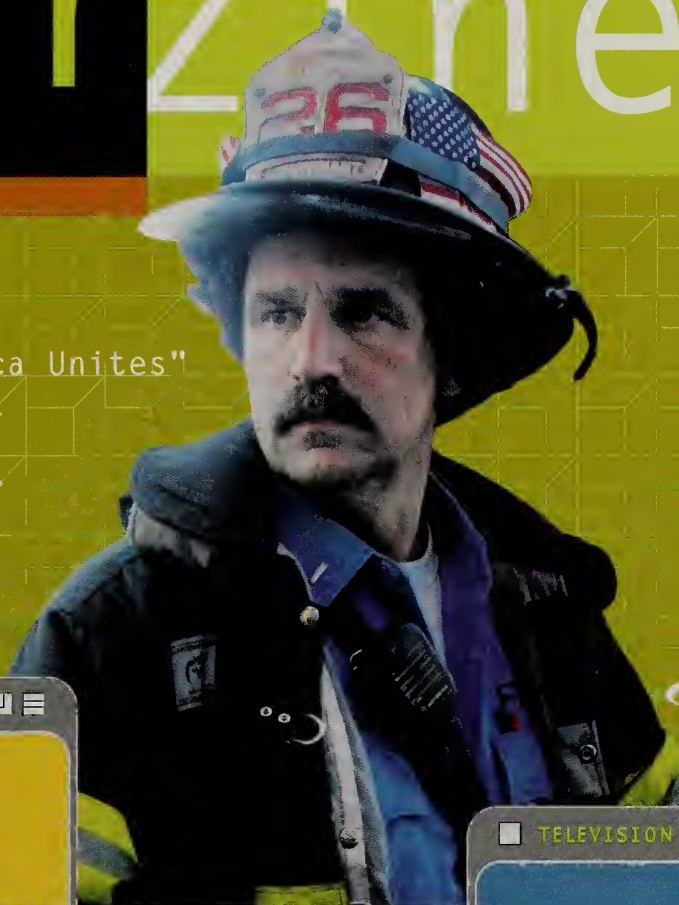

This tragedy has led us to the very top

Now rise up that flag and never stop

< Stealing much of the headlines were the events on and after Sept. 11th. More than 3,000 people lost their lives at the twin towers of the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and aboard the four hijacked commercial airliners. Also getting the spotlight were the rescue workers and volunteers who were recognized by all Americans as heroes. Sadly, it also marked the end of R&B sensation Aaliyah, another one of the Beatles' fab four,

George Harrison, and legendary comedian, Jack Lemmon. <
